THE STRIKE STILL ON

Rioting Kept Up in Connection With the Street Railway Troubles.

Six Hundred Special Deputies Were Assigned to Duty and Three Hundre- Held in Reserve-Subpoenaeing Kept Up.

St. Louis, June 1.-The order of the police commissioners on the sheriff of St. Louis county to swear in 1,000 special deputies was followed by another order to swear in 1,500 additional men, making 2,500 in all, for the purpose of aiding the police department in preserving peace and order. To a certain extent these orders have created consternation among men in all walks of life, as is evidenced by Sheriff Pohlman's statement that an epidemic of sickness has suddenly broken out in the city since the draft for the posse began. Nearly every man of any position, the sheriff says, who has been summoned to serve in the posse is scurrying along to get a physician's certificate that he is suffering from some chronic disease which unfits him for duty.

Albert Koenig, a union man, emptied the contents of a shotgun into the body of Police Officer Crane and was himself instantly killed by a bullet from the revolver of Officer Maher on Broadway, near the Southern electrie power house, late last night.

St. Louis, June 2.-As regards riotous demonstrations and shedding of blood in connection with the strike on the St. Louis Transit system, yesterday was one of the most uneventone name being added to the list of easualties, that of Officer Crane, who died of wounds received the day before.

Former Gov. Wm. J. Stone is preparing the answer of the street railway to the injunction proceedings instituted in the federal court some time ago. Gov. Stone in the answer contends that there is an adequate remedy at law for a settlement of the difficulty without embroiling the federal government in the matter, and states further that there is no federal statute authorizing such an injunction as is prayed for in the United States court.

The swearing in of the posse comitatus is progressing smoothly. Nearly 500 men have been secured. When 1,000 men have been sworn in the force will be organized as a regiment, and if the 2,500 called for are sworn in, two regiments will be organized. Men of known military qualifications have been selected to drill and command the various companies.

St. Louis, June 4 .- a riot of small proportion, during the progress of which a boy was fatally shot and a dynamite explosion marred what would have otherwise been an un eventful Sabbath. As a car on the Tower Grove line of the St. Louis Transit Co. was passing the corner of 12th and Calhoun streets a crowd of strike sympathizers began throwing rocks at it. An unknown man leaned from one of the windows of the car and fired a shot from a revolver toward the unruly crowd. The bullet sped over the heads of the mob and found lodgment in the breast of Peter Frank, a 16-year-old boy who was sitting in the doorway of his father's house, an interested spectator of the demonstration. A detachment of police dispersed the rioters and carried young Frank to the city hospital. The physicians say the wound will prove fatal.

At a late hour in the afternoon an explosion of dynamite shattered the cable conduits and switches on the urday after having been given a sat-Dlive street line at the intersection of of ...e line had to be suspended.

At 9:30 o'clock in the morning the nucleus of the first regiment of special deputies forming Sheriff Pohlman's posse comitatus, consisting of 10 companies of 60 mcn each, armed with riot shotguns, were assigned to active service in preserving order in the continuance of the street car strike. Their duties consisted in patroling the streets, doing guard duty at the various power houses and car sheds. The present intention of the police commissioners is not to detail any of this force to ride upon the street ears. Such of the posse as are not doing patrol duty at the power where danger is imminent will be held in reserve at the station houses.

THE EUROPEAN STATION.

It will Be Re-Established by Rr. Adm. Rodgers-The New wearsarge Will Be the Flagship.

Washington, June 3.-Rr. Adm. Frederick Rodgers has been selected to re-establish the European station, according to the general understanding at the navy department, and will probably fly his pennant from the new battleship Kearsarge in the English channel before the end of August. At the final inspection of the battleship the first of this week by Adm. Rodgers this information was imparted to the officers of the ship, and they were too delighted to keep their good fortune as secret as the or two at least.

The choice of the Kearsarge as flagship of the European fleet is regarded as particularly appropriate, men, Maj. March 125. as she will create a good impression concerning the latest products of American naval ingenuity, including the superimposed turrets and electrical auxiliaries. Adm. Rodgers is also regarded as admirably fitted to command this important station, which was abandoned for lack of two years ago, and on which no American pennant has since been displayed except that of Adm. Dewey last year.

The other vessels of the fleet, except the Albany, which has just been commissioned in English waters, have not yet been selected, and it is possible that no others can be spared until next fall, when the admiral will naturally wish to cruise into the Mediterranean. By that time, unless the porte in the meantime pays the promised missionary indemnity, the command will be strengthened until capful since the employes went out, only able of making a considerable display of force.

THE CANAL BILL.

It Was Made Special Order for Next Session-Amended General Deficiency Bill Passed.

Washington, June 3 .- Soon after the senate convened Saturday, Mr. Morgan, chairman of the committee on interoceanic canals, made a request that the so-called Hepburn-Nicaragua canal bill be made the special order for consideration at 2 p. m. on Monday, December 10-the second Monday of the next session. Mr. Morgan said he realized the impossibility of obtaining consideration of the bill at this session. His request was agreed to.

When morning business was concluded the senate resumed consideration of the general deficiency bill. An amendment was offered by Mr. Morgan and agreed to, appropriating $13,568 to reimburse the Maritime Canal Co., of Nicaragua, for expenditures in aid of the commission authorized by act of congress known as the Ludlow commission for inspection and survey of the Nicaragua canal. An amendment was offered, and after some discussion was agreed to, to pay an extra month's salary to employes of the senate and house of representatives. After several minor amendments had been made to the bill it was reported to the senate, the amendments agreed to and the bill passed. This is the last of the general appropriation

REVOLTING SCENES.

Louis Llopsch's Report on How He round the Famine-Stricken District in India.

Bombay, June 4.-Louis Klopsch, of New York, publisher of the Christian Herald, who arrived here May 14 and started at once on a tour of the famine-stricken districts, has returned after traveling through the most sorely smitten portions of the Bombay presidency, including Gujerat and Barolda. He makes the following statement regarding his observations: "Everywhere I met the most shocking and revolting scenes. The famine camps have been swept by cholera and smallpox. Fugitives, scattering in all directions and stricken in flight, were found dying in the fields and roadside ditches. The numbers at one relief station were increasing at the rate of 10,000 per day. At Godhera there were 3,000 deaths from cholera within four days, and at Dohad 2,500 in the same period. The hospital death rate at Gedhera and

"I visited the smallpox and cholera wards at Viragam. All the patients were lying on the ground, there beseen a general spread of rebel activity ing no cots. Otherwise their condition was fair.

"I can fully verify the reports that vultures, dogs and jackals are devouring the dead. Dogs have been seen by night several of the 267 towns running about with children's limbs in their jaws.

"The government is doing its best, but the native officials are hopelessly during three days' hard fighting last and heartlessly inefficient. Between week. An action was commenced by the owners, J. W. Singerly and Louis Lammert, of Philadelphia, but during the proceedings the animal died, and a suit for $20,000 was brought. It was shown that Morello was a valuable horse, and the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs. The case will probably be taken to the supreme court.

JOHANNESBURG QUIET

Roberts Reports That Arms and Ponies Are Being Surrendered.

Col. Sprigg and His Battalion of Imperial Yeomanry Attacked Between Kroonstad and Lindley -No News From Pretoria.

Lourenzo Marques, June 3.-President Kruger Friday was still at Machadodorp (about half way between Pretoria and the Portugues frontier on the railroad between the Transvaal capital and Delagoa bay). Boer commands totaling about 10,000 men, held, Thursday, all the positions and hills around Pretoria. Another large command was at Bronkhursts Spruit (about forty miles from Pretoria, on the railroad leading to Delagoa bay).

London, June 4.-Lord Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Orange Grove, June 2:

"Johannesburg is quiet. The people are surrendering arms and ponies Only three Boer guns were left in the fort. The shops are being opened, and there seems to be a general feeling of relief at the peaceful occupation of the town.

"The Queenslanders captured May 30 a Creusot, with 11 wagons of stores and ammunition.

"Received a report yesterday that Office, in Agricultural Bank Building four prisoners had escaped from Pretoria.

There is no direct news from . retoria of later date than Thursday evening. Gen. French's cavalry were then at Irene, eight miles south of Pretoria, and firing was heard there. Lord Roberts' messages about secondary operations elsewhere and the situation at Johannesburg, dated at Orange Grove, a farm four miles northeast of Johannesburg, show that on Saturday at 9:10 p. m. he was 25 miles from Pretoria.

The correspondents with Lord Roberts have not got through a line about the operations after the occupation of Johannesburg. Official messages continue to come through, but press telegrams are held up, probably to avoid their giving a hint as to what may be the pending operations. From the other side there filters through Lourenco Marques a mass of statements, some contradictory, others obviously improbable, but all purporting to be facts.

Passengers arriving at Lourenco Marques Saturday direct from Pretoria say that the capital was preparing to surrender when they left on Thursday. The first trains were dismantled. The soer guard at Komatipoort searched all trains and turned back most of the fugitives, among them deserting foreigners who were trying to reach neutral soil.

REEVES ARRESTED.

The Confession Made by the Supposed Neely Accomplice Suspected to Be Only Half the Truth.

Havana, June 3.-A warrant was issued for the arrest of former Deputy Auditor W. H. Reeves, who was lodged in jail, his bail being fixed at $1,500. It is now believed that Reeves in his so-called "confession" only gave half the truth. Indeed, the delay in placing him behind the bars was largely due to the desire of the officials to obtain the remainder of his information regarding Neely's ev-

A very important feature relates to an allegation that Neely gave another man $15,000. This, if true, can only be established in the United States, and an inspector will leave Havana shortly to investigate. Reeves asserts that heavy mortgages were lifted from the property of the accused man by funds that could not have been obtained in any other way than through Neely.

CHINA BACKS DOWN

Marines From Six Foreign Warships Allowed to Enter Pekin.

The Chinese Foreign Office Apologizes for Having Refused the Russians and French Permission to Land-Quiet in Pekin.

Pekin, June 1.-At 2:30 a. m. yesterday the foreign envoys received the reply of the Tsung Li Yamen to their ultimatum of Wednesday calling upon the Chinese authorities to consent to the landing of a force of marines to come to Pekin to guard the legations.

The ultimatum uxed the hour of 6 a. m. as the hour at or before which the reply must be forthcoming. The Tsung Li Yamen agreed to withdraw opposition to the coming of the guards.

Tien Tsin, June 1 .- A special train has started for Pekin with the following forces:

It is doubtless the party that left Taku three days ago and includes the men from the cruiser Newark that were landed at that port. It is also presumed that the party includes the Russians, Germans, French and British marines that were reported to have left Taku at the same time the men from the Newark began their march. The arrival of the marines is taken as evidence that they were not opposed by the hostile element that has arisen. It is a good three days' march from Taku to Pekin and had the blue jackets been opposed their arriva! would have been delayed.

Message From Philadelphia Schoolboys Delivered to the President of the Transvaal.

Philadelphia, June 2.-The North American has received the following cable message:

"Pretoria, May 29.-By stress of dire circumstances the message from the schoolboys of Philadelphia to President Kruger, delivered this day, has the tone of sympathy and sorrow at the final misfortune which is about to wipe the South African republic from the roll of independent nations, rather than of encouragement to a people fighting for liberty -for the fight has been fought-and

"The message was delivered in the executive chamber at the capitol, through the windows of which came the rumble of ox carts and general confusion attendant upon the evacuation of the city by the families of the Boers. The British are reported to be approaching.

"There was an impressive silence in the chamber as the stern and venerabic president of this doomed republic bent forward to receive from Messenger Jules Francis Smith the packet which the boy had traveled 12,000 miles to deliver into his hands.

MAN WITH BROKEN NECK.

New York Surgeons Perform an Operation and the Patient Is Getting Well.

That it is possible to save the life of a man with a broken neck is made manifest in the remarkable case of Walter B. Duryea, who is now almost fully recovered and who is to be removed from Roosevelt hospital to his home in Glen

Mr. Duryea is the son of a wealthy manufacturer. Last August he was bathing at Oyster bay and dived from a dancing pavilion into shallow water. His head struck bottom, and when he was pulled ashore it was found that his neck had been broken. He was brought to New York, placed in the Roosevelt hospital and was operated upon by Dr. Abbe, the well-known surgeon.

Medical men in all parts of the world have been eagerly awaiting results. The young man was very feeble for months after the operation. Of late, however, his improvement has been quite rapid, and he is now able to use his hands even to the extent of writing. Dr. Abbe believes that his wonderful patient will entirely recover, and that thus another triumph will be scored for modern surgery.

THE BAMBOO FLUTE.

(Japanese.) I hear from the shade of the fir trees The fisher's flute again-His importunate lamentations,

His passion and his pain. Proud lords and lovely ladies Met there in nights gone by, While the summer moon was sailing Like a pleasure boat on high.

The lords sang amorous ditties, The ladies touched the lute, Where emulous and envious, The nightingale was mute.

They stole apart in the darkness, and plighted nearts and hands, stifling songs with laughter, Danced on the yellow sands.

There is more in the fisher's music, Of passion and of pain, Than he knows. And here at midnight It comes to me again;

Comes back with a silent sorrow, The weight of tears unshed, The longing for vanished voices,
The loved, the lost—the dead!

CHAPTER VII.-CONTINUED.

A murmur of approval rose from the group, even Mrs. Fanshaw, who sat rocking between her two daughters on the porch, grunted as if Syd Hart had furnished the key to a problem which involved the welfare of the nation. Ronald's face was flushed, a look of determination was in his eyes. "No," he said, firmly; "they must give him a trial."

Sydney Hart leaned back in his sadale and laughed tantalizingly.

"Oh, you want to get a chance at him, eh? You are studyin' to be a lawyer, an' you've already begun to look atter the intrust of your gang. Well, you won't make anything out of this job if I can help it."

"We shall see," answered Ronald. "He may not be guilty and you shall not lynch him!"

The rider of the horse leaned towards Ronald and snapped his fingers, a white look of fury unbridled on his sinister

"Bah!" he said, contemptuously. "If I couldn't thwart you I'd cut my throat. It's a go, then; you are a-goin' to give the scamp a trial an' I'm a-goin' to let the boys have the'r fun. Ha, ha! you make me sick."

Ronald said nothing and Hart wheeled his horse and, followed by the crowd, he started towards the edge of the swamp. Dave lingered by the side of his brother.

"Don't stick yore head in the fire, Ron," he counseled; "no human power can balk Syd when he once makes up his mind. Besides, you'll make a dangerous enemy out o' him, an' everything points to the fellow's guilt. What did he break an' run fur if he was inno-

"Because," was Ronald's reply, "he perhaps knew that the law is not upheld in these mountains and was afraid he would be lynched."

"I believe he killed Mrs. Telplay," affirmed Mrs. Fanshaw, "an' as fur as I'm concerned, they may take 'im off an' hang 'im. The way justice is cheated in court is enough to dissatisfy anybody. Ronald did not carry the argument further. He went up to his room, and from his window watched Sydney Hart placing his men along the road which led by the edge of the swamp. In about an hour Dave came upstairs and leaned in the doorway, an air of indecision on him. "I have been studyin' over this, Ron," he said, sheepishly "an' I'm mighty sorry I can't go the whole bog with you, but I jest can't look at it like you do. I have decided to make it a draw-I'll not jine Hart's crowd nor yores nuther. I mought be with you ef I could see a ghost of a chance o' winnin', but them fellers would shoot as down like black cats on a white fence."

Ronald looked him over with a steady eye. "I could never feel like a patriotic American again if I do not fight for this fellow's life," he said. "Will you lend me your revolver again?"

Dave slowly drew it from his bippocket.

"I feel like you are a-goin' to git yorese'f in a awful fix," he said. "I wisht you would think better of it. You nur me, nur no one man can't run the universe.'

"You are right," replied Ronald, "but we can help do it. Our father, Dave, was an outlaw up in Tennessee during the war and I am going to try to atone for his conduct by upholding the law down here to the best of my ability."

David sat down in a chair near Ronald's book-strewn table.

"I've been powerful afraid somebody down heer would git hold o' all that,' he said, with some concern. "I wish we had never located so near his old stamping-ground as this."

"There is no use trying to escape the consequences of crime," responded Ronald. "I believe he thinks of his past night and day. I have seen him jump out of bed in the middle of the Tobe had been to the post office and night as if he thought some one was trying to kill him."

"And I think ma is as much afeerd as he is," answered Dave. "Sometimes I think she took a hand in all of it." To this Ronald made no answer.

That morning the negroes on Coi. Rasbrooke's plantation, being the first to rise, came first into possession of the grewsome news. Many of them had Half a dozen negroes essayed to explain, but the result was a noisy confusion of tones and words. The colonel stamped his foot and swore furiously. This left Ephraim with the floor; he was too deaf to hear his master's comthe story from his lips.

"In my swamp, eh?" he exclaimed, when the carriage driver had finished. "a pretty come off! The next thing we be hiding in my corn house and gin, and you lazy scamps will stand by and al-

With this parting shot into the black, upturned faces, the colonel retreated into his room to finish dressing and to tell his guests the news. In a few minutes Hardy and Winkle came down for their early morning promenade on the front veranda and they were promptly followed by the ladies.

"I hope they will chase 'im out near us," observed the captain, as he helped himself to one of the colonel's apple toddies, which James was passing round in a punch-bowl. "As long as I have lived in this section I have never been present at a lynching bee."

As he finished speaking he found himself under the cold stare of Mrs. Lancaster's mild blue eyes.

"I should think, Capt. Winkle," she remarked, "that you would have more consideration for a human life at stake than to look upon the matter as providing you with a new form of amuse-

The colonel was listening to this colloquy as he stirred the apples up in the toddy with an old-fashioned silver

"Of course," he remarked, "lynch law a deplorable thing. It is fundamen tally wrong, because mistakes have now and then happened; but how on earth are you going to stop it? Why, Mrs. Laneaster, those chaps-Syd Hart Thad Williams and their ilk-would burn me out of house and home if I uttered a protest in this matter."

"But, papa"-Evelyn stood holding to Mrs. Lancaster's hand, and as she spoke her voice trembled-"but, papa, you must do something-you really must. The man has not been proved guilty; he may be absolutely innocent."

"Ah, there you go!" laughed the colonel as he touched her chin playfully. "You think your old father ought to run the world. Why, I am absolutely helpless. If I telegraphed the governor to order out the state militia, they couldn't get here in time, and if they could these determined mountain men would make it hot for them. Twenty lives would be lost instead of one."

Just then breakfast was announced. The colonel gallantly offered his arm to Mrs. Lancaster, and as she took it she started to draw Evelyn along with her. But the girl drew back.

"I don't care to go in now." she faltered. "I had a cup of coffee in my room. Oh, 1 am so afraid they will hang him!"

"Well, I shall come out to you soon. dear," said the widow, tenderly. "Wait for me."

Seated at a window in the drawingthe veranda alone-Evelyn had a good view of the road running along the edge of the swamp. She could see the ever-strengthening chain of men, their guns and pistols gleaming in the sunlight. To her the sight was more awful than had it been an army in battle array. Presently she saw a figure on a white horse moving along the line of men, pausing now and then as if in argument. She decided that the horse was Ronald Fanshaw's-that he was the rider. Something told her that he was feeling as she felt and that he was trying to influence his neighbors to refrain from illegal conduct. She watched the rider so closely that the strain on her eyes produced a blur in her vision. He was almost out of sight now, and she went out on the veranda to get a more extended view of the road bending round the swamp. She saw black Tobe, one of her father's servants, coming up the avenue from the road just traversed by Ronald. was bringing back a bag of letters and papers. "I want you to give your consent to something."

"What is that, darling?" "Come into the writing-room with me. I am afraid you will object, and yet so much may depend on it!"

Mrs. Lancaster's face wore a frown of perplexity as she followed Evelyn through the book-lined library into a little room adjoining. The girl sank into a chair at the table and took up a pen. She bit the end of it nervously as she glanced up at her friend.

"I want to send him a line, only a word, saying that I approve of what he is doing, and that I do not want him to lose heart."

Mrs. Lancaster looked dubious as she sat down at the table and leaned her white head on her thin, blue-veined

"I don't think you ought to do it without your father's consent," she said, still looking down.

Evelyn sighed deeply. "He'd never consent-never; he'd not understand my motive as you do; he'd be perfectly unreasonable, but I do not want you to oppose me-that is, I don't want to do anything without your consent."

The woman addressed now gave Evelyn a steady look. "Remember, I am your father's guest.

I know how you feel, and if I thought it would be quite right I would-"

"You have no idea how little encouragement he gets," interrupted Evelyn, impulsively. "He is the only one among room-she felt too nervous to remain on all those people who is trying to do right."

Mrs. Lancaster put her arm round Evelyn's shoulders and gently took the pen from her ngers.

"I love you as if you were my own child, Evelyn. You are too young and inexperienced to see where all this is leading. Oh, you must be careful! If there were no barriers between you it would not be so bad, but under the existing circumstances I should be very culpable to-to allow this. He is a noble young man, and I like him-I can't explain why I like him so much, but I do."

With an impatient toss of her head Evelyn waived all arguments. "If an innocent man should be killed to-day," she said, firmly, "you will be sorry we did not do something towards averting his fate." Mrs. Lancaster shrank back a little, and then she became very thoughtful. Presently she suggested a compromise. "Suppose I write to him over my own name; will that do?"

"Yes, that will do; oh, I'm so glad; hurry up!" Mrs. Lancaster dipped her pen, drew

"Perhaps it ought not to go that way," protested Mrs. Lancaster, but as she thrust the note into an envelope and held it under the old lady's eyes.

A moment later Evelyn had slipped out into the negro quarter and called

KRUGER'S HUMOR.

Played It on Some Transvaal Countrymen.

Two brothers had inherited a larg! farm, which they were anxious to divide. But the one did not trust the other, and in the end they went to Pretoria to ask the president for his advice, which was that the elder should make the division and the younger should have the right of selection. Their fellow burghers remarked: "There is no question of it, the old president's equal is dead." Half a dozen back-country Boers had ome to Pretoria to see the wonders of the capital. With characteristic familiarity they paid the president a visit at the early coffee-drinking hour. and later on during the day he showed them over the government buildings. In one of the rooms an electric lamp was burning, and as they were passing out the president, with his hand on the switch or button, asked them to blow out the light from where they stood. The one after the other drew a deep breath, blew out his cheeks and sent forth a tremendous puff, but all in vain, the light burning as steadily as before. Then the president bade them look, and, blowing out his cheeks, slyly turned the switch, blew, and out went the light. The Boers were amazed, and as they left the buildings one of them, who had been more observant than the rest, remarked: "The president must have a wonderfully strong breath, for, did you notice, the light was entirely inclosed in glass."-Cape

A Wasteful Case.

"Did you ever stop to consider," said a well-known detective, "how the principle of economy is entirely lost sight of in the prosecution of trivial cases? For instance, here the other day a man was arrested for stealing five cents' worth of milk. The complainant never stopped to think how much it was going to cost him, but 1 guess he would be willing to withdraw the charge now. Here he has lost two days' pay on account of the case, offcers under pay have put in time that might be better employed, and there will be sheriff's fees to foot for the board of the prisoner while he is in jail. And all for five cents' worth of milk! There is very little economy in law."-Detroit Free Press.

Few realize what a deep-seated, obstinate disease Catarrh is, regarding it as a simple inflammation of the nose and throat, little or no attention is given it. But, however insignificant it may seem at first, it is serious and far-reaching in its results.

The foul secretions entering the circulation poison the entire system. The stomach, kidneys—in fact all the organs—feel the effect of this catarrhal poison, and when the lungs are reached its progress is rapid and destructive, and finally ends in consumption. It frequently happens that the senses of hearing and smell are in part or entirely lost, the soft bones of the nose eaten into and destroyed, causing intense suffering and greatly disfiguring the face. While sprays, washes and salves may give temporary relief, no permanent benefit can be expected from such treatment.

and far beyond the reach of mere local remedies. Those who rely upon them for a cure lose valuable time, meet with disappointment and allow the disease to take firmer hold. Only a real blood remedy can reach this troublesome and dangerous disease. S. S. S cures Catarrh because it first cleanses and builds up the blood, purifies it, makes it rich and healthy, stimulates and puts new life into the sluggish worn-out organs, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous accumulations.

Mrs. Josephine Polhill, of Due West, S. C., writes: "I had Catarrh, which became so deepsented that I was entirely deaf in one ear, and all inside of my nose, including part of the bone, sloughed off. When the disease had gone this far the physician gave me up as incurable. I determined to try S. S. S. as a last resort, and began to improve at once. It seemed to get at the sent of the disease, and after a few weeks' treatment I was entirely cured, and for more than seven years have had no sign of the disease."

S. S. S. is made of roots, herbs and barks of wonderful tonical and purifying properties. It is the only vegetable blood purifier known, and a certain and safe cure for all blood troubles. Send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases, and at the same time write our physicians about your case. They will cheerfully give you any information or advice wanted. We make no charge for this.
